Axiom SL's regulatory platform selected by Morgan Stanley

Axiom Software Laboratories Inc, leading global provider of Risk Management and Regulatory Reporting solutions has announced today that Morgan Stanley, the global financial services firm, has selected its regulatory reporting and data management products, ControllerView® and Integration Center™ as the platform to cater for its regulatory reporting needs. ControllerView® will be used to generate regulatory reports for the UK, while Integration Center™ will provide the bank with the ability to integrate data from multiple source systems.

ControllerView® offers the flexibility required to support equally changes in reporting logic and source systems while providing the essential transparency of calculations, processes and results to both users and regulators. The system also provides a set of reporting templates maintained by Axiom SL throughout regulatory changes. Its ability to handle disparate sources of data along with its proven high volumes performance has turned Axiom into the solution of choice for many institutions with global regulatory needs.

"We are delighted to add Morgan Stanley to the growing list of global financial firms that have decided to establish high standards for their financial and regulatory reporting framework using Axiom. Our unique solution is the only platform available to global organizations serious about addressing the ever increasing demands of global regulators and executives for a complete and transparent picture of the enterprise" said Alex Tsigutkin, CEO of Axiom. "Given the aggressive deadlines for liquidity reporting requirements, we are looking forward to a swift and successful delivery."
